

6 MARINE SERVICES RISKS

1

HEAVY EQUIPMENT

Outdated equipment inspections, poorly kept maintenance records and under-trained operators leave companies exposed to significant liabilities.

2

CRANES ON BARGES

Failure to adhere to enhanced requirements from both OSHA and CFR have resulted in operators facing heavy fines and sometimes incarceration after accidents.

3

CONTRACTUAL LIABILITY

Unexpected claims result from a lack of contracts, non-updated agreements or contracts that don't include "hold harmless" or "indemnity" agreements.

4

FLEET EXPOSURES

Failure to ensure that motor vehicle and accident records are updated or not providing quality defensive driving/accident avoidance training can result in significant losses.

5

CAT EXPOSURE

Lack of pre-established emergency response relationships with vendors and suppliers can result in significant downtime in the aftermath of a widespread catastrophe.

6

VIBRATIONS

Pile driving operations cause noise and vibration over large distances and can lead to complaints that will delay or hinder operations.
